

Christine Wilson

Senior Vice President – Legal
Regulatory and International

Christine Wilson is Senior Vice President – Legal, Regulatory and International at Delta Air Lines. Based in the Washington, D.C. office, Christine is responsible for leading Delta's regulatory and international teams.

Before joining Delta, Christine was a partner at the law firm of Kirkland & Ellis LLP, where she provided antitrust and consumer protection guidance to Fortune 100 companies in a wide array of industries. She has represented clients before the Department of Justice, the U.S. Federal Trade Commission, the European Commission, and other global authorities. Christine also served as a senior government official during her tenure as Chief of Staff to FTC Chairman Timothy J. Muris.

Christine received her undergraduate degree from the University of Florida, Phi Beta Kappa, and her J.D. from Georgetown University, cum laude. In 2006, Washingtonian magazine placed her on its list of the top 40 lawyers under 40 in Washington, D.C. She is recognized as a leading antitrust practitioner by Chambers, Euromoney's Guide to the World's Leading Competition & Antitrust Lawyers, and The Legal 500 U.S. She co-founded The Grapevine, a women's network for D.C. professionals in the antitrust and consumer protection arenas.

For many years, Christine has worked with and funded the efforts of organizations battling to end human trafficking both domestically and internationally. She now has the privilege of serving on Delta Air Lines' Human Trafficking Steering Committee, which works to leverage the skills and resources of Delta in the fight against modern-day slavery.